RESORT SYNOPSIS: COMO Maalifushi, Maldives

In January 2014, COMO Hotels and Resorts — the name behind COMO Cocoa Island in the Maldives and COMO Parrot Cay in the Turks and Caicos — opened its second private island resort in the Maldives.

COMO Maalifushi is the first and only resort to open on the unspoilt Thaa Atoll, in the archipelago's southern reaches well regarded for its diving and surf breaks. The resort is reached by a 60-minute seaplane journey from the islands' capital, Malé.

The Thaa Atoll, a beautiful ring-shaped reef, is one of the largest in the world, comprising more than 60 islands over 500 square miles, many of which are uninhabited.

The resort is the first in the Maldives from the Japanese interior designer Koichiro Ikebuchi. Accommodation includes 33 overwater villas and suites, and 32 beach villas, suites and garden rooms, all built of yellow balau with Kajan thatched roofs, referencing indigenous architecture while remaining elegantly pared back to reflect the island's calming setting. Overwater suites and villas are built off wooden walkways that stand above the shallow lagoon, each with its own private terrace and pool, while garden villas and suites are set within the folds of the island's lush tropical vegetation — yet still only twenty steps from the beach's high tide mark. The views are consistently spectacular with empty Indian Ocean horizons.

COMO Maalifushi offers all the understated luxuries of a COMO private island resort, with a COMO Shambhala Retreat for holistic wellness, world-class yoga facilities and exceptional cuisine along with safe, authoritative access to the Maldives' vibrant marine life for diving, snorkelling and fishing. Around Thaa Atoll, this includes sightings of whale sharks and hammerhead sharks. Some of the Maldives best-regarded surf breaks are also close by, with expert tuition on hand during the season.

The COMO principle of integrating fine cuisine into each guest experience is something that sets it apart from other resorts in the Maldives. COMO Maalifushi's approach to cuisine is contemporary and relaxed with menus inspired by the ocean setting. 'Tai' is the headline restaurant, featuring Japanese seafood with a sunken sushi bar for terrace dining. 'Madi' offers a classic COMO all-day dining experience showcasing tropical ingredients in Maldivian, Mediterranean, Indonesian and Thai-accented dishes. The many uninhabited islands on COMO Maalifushi's doorstep can be used for those seeking a private dining experience, served by a private butler. A healthful COMO Shambhala Cuisine menu is also available. 'Thila Bar' is a relaxed pool bar and lounge for billiards, easygoing salads, pizzas and wood-baked seafood.

COMO's signature service is here too, with staff whose warmth, discretion and passion for detail stands out from the competition. Guests staying in COMO Maalifushi's most exclusive villas (Maalifushi Beach Villas, COMO Residence, Maalifushi Water Villas and COMO Villas only) will also experience the services of COMO's private butlers.

COMO Shambhala Retreat at COMO Maalifushi is a place to relax, recuperate and feel well, guided by expert therapists. Eight overwater treatment rooms offer a range of signature facials, massages and body therapies. The Retreat also has an open-air yoga pavilion offering complimentary daily classes each day, a large pool, relaxation area and spa boutique selling COMO Shambhala's popular bodycare products and Active Living Collection. Private yoga tuition and guided pranayama meditation is available. There is also a gym with cardio equipment and weights.

Families are well looked after at COMO Maalifushi. Children can explore and make new friends in the secure environment of this relatively large island. The lagoon is safe to swim. COMO Maalifushi's choice of landed suites and villas, many with private lawns, are ideal for families with younger children. Childminding and babysitting services are provided. Menus for infants and children include healthy, delicious choices. A number of family-friendly excursions are available, from beachside picnics on a picnic island to dolphin spotting on a sunset cruise.

At COMO Maalifushi, our dedicated Play by COMO Space is designed to inspire purposeful and creative play for children aged four to 12, with carefully-selected toys, books, games and art materials. Parents can take some well-deserved time out, relaxing in the knowledge that their child is having fun in a safe, comfortable environment with our childcare professionals.

DESTINATION OVERVIEW: COMO Maalifushi, Maldives

The Maldives are a 754km-long string of 1192 dots located south of India and west of Sri Lanka. Most of the islands are less than two kilometres square with land no higher than two metres above sea level. Around 202 are inhabited, including 90 given over to tourism. The majority are located north of the capital Malé. The fact that COMO Maalifushi is in Thaa Atoll makes it stand apart, with exceptionally pristine waters.

Thaa Atoll also has a uniquely interesting history. The first settlers arrived here in the late eighteenth century as freed African slaves. They developed a dance, the Bodu Maali Neshun (Dance of the Giant Being), which incorporated their own folktales and rhythms. This dance is still performed during religious festivals and holidays with elaborate costumes conjuring mystical creatures.

COMO Maalifushi — the first and only resort on the unspoilt Thaa Atoll — looks little changed from this time. The pristine, expansive surroundings are over 100 miles from the busy city of Malé, allowing guests to relax while fully capturing the spirit of the Indian Ocean.

The unchanged look of the environs is also due to commanding government policies. New buildings, for instance, cannot exceed the highest palm trees. In addition, Maldivian tourism does not cater to mid- to low-market developments that favour volume over environmental considerations.

The dry season runs from December to March. Mid-April and late November are best for diving, with calm seas and exceptionally clear water. The rainy season runs from May to November. These are only tropical storms, with sunshine reliably breaking through the clouds. Divers should note that January to March is the best time to see whale sharks and hammerheads.

The Maldivians are 100 per cent Muslim. The people, who largely work in tourism or fishing, share many features with the Indian Subcontinent's population — most obviously, a smiling, well-meaning national character. To find out more about Maldivian land and culture, guests of COMO Maalifushi can take advantage of local community visits with the resort's highly informed Maldivian staff. Guests can also take to the water on a Maldivian fishing boat, or dhoni, which is among the most spectacular ways to take in the Indian Ocean sunsets.

BEYOND THE RESORT: Activities at COMO Maalifushi, Maldives

The Maldives in general, and COMO Maalifushi in particular, offer very good water-based activities from diving to surfing. The waters surrounding the islands are clear, calm and exceptionally beautiful. This is also why the Maldives are appealing to families, with children able to snorkel safely, while for divers, there are numerous chronicled dive sites, as well as large tracts of unexplored channels and reefs which makes the atoll popular with liveaboard dive boats — which aside from COMO Maalifushi, is currently the only other way to access this region in comfort. The resort therefore provides a full range of diving experiences for different levels, from learn to dive PADI courses to night dives on nearby reefs.

'Cameron', our 68-foot Hatteras 'sport fisher' yacht, allows guests to explore the Maldivian seas in comfort. Based at COMO Maalifushi, the fully-crewed boat can be used for game fishing trips, opening up the archipelago's best waters for tuna, wahoo, marlin and sailfish, and diving itineraries to 'off the grid' spots.

For those who wish to explore further, COMO Maalifushi can arrange guided aqua-safaris with the resort's resident marine biologist. This includes a Whale Shark Night Snorkelling experience where you can choose to join these gentle giants in the water or simply watch them from the deck. This experience is unique to COMO Maalifushi, and is available from the end of November through to April.

There are also some very good surf breaks in and around Thaa Atoll. COMO Maalifushi has one particularly good break located on the atoll's southwest side, which can be experienced on guided surf trips. The surfing season runs from April to October.

Sailing is also popular, with both sheltered and open water sailing to experience. There is very rarely over 25 knots of wind, making the Maldives a year-round sailing destination, with seas calmest during the high season. At COMO Maalifushi, catamaran sailing is available.

Fishing is part of the Indian Ocean culture and for many forms a vital livelihood. Thaa Atoll in particular has some very productive waters. Large reef fish such as grouper, wahoo, giant and bluefin trevally, red snapper and dogtooth tuna are prize game catches. Resort guests who want to go fishing have access to the expertise, equipment and boat captains at COMO Maalifushi. Others who just want to take in the views of open ocean can opt for a sunset cruise instead aboard a local 'dhoni' fishing boat.

COMO Maalifushi offers light tackle and fly fishing options to the north and south of Maalifushi, with most sites located within a 30-minute radius of the hotel. Explore 150 kilometres of virgin flats on our 68ft yacht, Cameron, which is available for private charter year-round, or set off on our Sunset Bottom Fishing experience for traditional handline fishing.

From January to April we offer fly fishing, when bonefish, red snapper, tuna, grouper, triggerfish, emperor fish and six varieties of trevally (including giant trevally) are available to catch.

COMO Maalifushi offers trips to Lavadhoo, a deserted island only five to 10 minutes away. Here, guests can experience life as a luxury castaway from the moment they slip their feet into the sand. Underwater, guests can explore exceptional snorkelling points, while on land trekking routes cut through lush vegetation. Others can simply relax on the beach while every need is catered to. At lunchtime, our chefs serve a delicious island BBQ, from fresh fish to succulent meat.

In Thaa Atoll, which is largely unpopulated, local island culture centres upon the only village, Veymandhu, with a population of less than 1,000. Those wishing to venture further afield can explore Malé, the islands' capital. Malé is only 1.6kms wide and has a population of 90,000. It is recommended to any guests combining a stay at COMO Maalifushi with a stay at COMO Cocoa Island, which is COMO's sister hotel in the Maldives and located just a 40-minute speedboat transfer from the capital. Major sites include the gold domed Islamic Centre, the Presidential Palace, the Friday Mosque, the National Museum and the fish and fruit market.
