HOTEL SYNOPSIS: COMO Metropolitan Bangkok

In October 2003, COMO Hotels and Resorts – the name behind private island resorts like COMO Parrot Cay in the Turks and Caicos Islands, and adventure retreats like COMO Uma Ubud – opened COMO Metropolitan Bangkok. It was the company's second Metropolitan property (the first opened in London in 1997). COMO Metropolitan Bangkok is located at the city's heart in the Central Business District, 10 minutes from Bangkok's major shopping areas and a 45-minute transfer to the International Airport. It is removed from Bangkok's traffic but close to the city's buzzing nightlife, tucked away on South Sathorn Road.

The hotel has 169 rooms, including four Penthouse Suites and the two-bedroom COMO Suite. The thoughtfully-designed City Rooms (26sq m to 39sq m) are generous, with ample space a key facet of the hotel's design. This is achieved with a sleek, contemporary aesthetic created by Kathryn Kng, Singapore's most innovative interior architect.

Kng's past work includes fashion stores for Issey Miyake, Christian Dior and Emporio Armani. She has worked on the interior conversion of the Four Season Island Explorer, a five-star diveboat launched December 2002 in the Maldives. Kng comes to COMO Metropolitan Bangkok as one of COMO Hotels and Resorts' favourite designers. She also developed the interior aesthetic for COMO Uma Paro in Bhutan.

Kng creates sophistication through the unconventional combination of materials – fresh and original, acknowledging influences from both the East and West, using natural properties. At COMO Metropolitan Bangkok for example, the lobby uses Dark Emperador marble from Spain. These airy interiors are filled with light – the work of Isometrix, a London-based lighting company set up by architect Arnold Chan. In recent years, Isometrix has collaborated with major interior designers including Calvin Tsao, Christian Liaigre and John Pawson on hotels, boutiques and restaurants worldwide. The company's architectural approach underlines the simple sophistication of a beautiful, well-conceived space.

The detailing is also important, and includes carefully sourced Asian antiques. For example, the hotel's four Penthouse Suites and COMO Suite share an 11th floor corridor dressed with teakwood carving, Chinese 'horseshoe' chairs and temple bells. Step aside, and the Penthouse Suites feature original Helen Yardley-designed rugs, Patricia Urquilo sofas, Artemide Melampo table lamps and bamboo coffee tables from northern Thailand. Highlights of the COMO Suite include a red lacquer cabinet and a custom-designed ceiling light in handblown red and orange glass.

Luxury details range from mosaic and limestone bathrooms, to Thai silk cushions and curtains, as well as COMO Shambhala bathroom amenities. Floor-to-ceiling windows are another conspicuous feature in suites.

But it is not just design that has secured COMO Metropolitan Bangkok's iconic status. Service is energetic, with consistent attention to detail. It has flair, with the hotel's Concierge imparting a level of local knowledge that allows each guest to feel like a Bangkok insider.

In-room technological specifications are state-of-the art, and include high speed broadband Internet with wireless LAN option, and a 40-inch LCD TV.

Cuisine is a key element of the hotel experience. Our Michelin-starred restaurant, nahm, features Thai cuisine, with standout dishes incorporating seasonal ingredients from all regions of Thailand. It was awarded a seven consecutive Michelin star in the Michelin Guide 2024.

nahm is helmed by Chef Pim, who is making news as this multi-award-winning restaurant's first female chef. Chef Pim upholds nahm's original roots in traditional Thai cuisine while also injecting her personal style and flavours.

glow is an 82-seat restaurant serving fresh food only – rendered as light meals, energising juices and blends rich in living enzymes, vitamins and minerals. This healthful approach is in line with the COMO Shambhala Kitchen menus first developed at COMO Parrot Cay.

To provide a counterpoint to this urban energy, the 1,200sq m COMO Shambhala Metropolitan Bangkok is designed for guests seeking greater health through yoga and other related treatments. There is a yoga studio offering complimentary yoga sessions daily, fully- equipped gym, hydrotherapy pool and a 25-metre outdoor pool.

Guests can also take advantage of COMO Shambhala's Asian-inspired therapies in our 10 treatment rooms. These range from specific body treatments to facials and massages, delivered by experienced practitioners who customise treatments according to individual needs.

For those in Bangkok on business, the hotel's location puts it among the top venues for events, from cocktail parties to private lunches, press days, TV screenings, fashion shows and interviews. The three state-of-the art meeting rooms accommodate up to 80 people. A personal meeting butler is available to ensure fuss-free proceedings.
