

A person wearing a brown jacket and a backpack stands on a grassy hillside, looking out over a vast landscape. The hillside is covered with numerous tall, thin wooden poles, each topped with a long, white prayer flag. The flags are fluttering in the wind. In the background, there are mountains and a clear blue sky. The overall scene is serene and majestic.

CULTURAL NOTES

- If the air seems fresher in Bhutan, it's because it is. Bhutan is the first country in the world that has environmental protection built into its constitution. It's stipulated that at least 60 per cent of the nation must remain under forest cover at all times, making Bhutan the world's only carbon-negative nation, as it absorbs more carbon dioxide than it produces.
- Forgetting birthdays doesn't happen in Bhutan, as all citizens turn one year older on New Year's Day. It originally began as most people did not record their own birth date due to illiteracy, and was maintained as it became easier to share a communal celebration of the year rather than a month and day.
- Bhutan's borders were not open until 1974, when international media was allowed to cover the coronation of its former king. Previously, Bhutan had been in self-imposed isolation to protect their Buddhist culture and unspoiled landscape from globalisation. It also only lifted a ban on television and the internet in 1999.
- Contrary to inheritance law almost anywhere else, Bhutanese families pass property onto the eldest daughter rather than the son. After marriage, a man moves into the home of his new wife rather than the other way around.

Druk Choeding Temple

- Ignoring global metrics of economic growth, Bhutan developed the concept of Gross National Happiness (GNH). It is often ranked as the happiest nation in South Asia and among the top ten happiest places in the world.
- Spice-lovers rejoice, and the spice-sensitive beware – chilli is not a condiment in Bhutan, but an essential vegetable. Their cuisine is heavily spiced by default, and it is said that they will not eat a dish until it is spicy enough.
- Bhutan's capital, Thimphu, does not have a single traffic light. People drive slowly and carefully through the precarious roads and it hasn't failed them yet. Local officials tried to install a light but roused such public outcry that it was quickly removed and a traffic officer assigned to the intersection instead.
- Only eight pilots have been trained to navigate landing in Paro Airport. Situated in a deep valley, flying to Paro involves avoiding high peaks and strong winds in specific meteorological conditions. The flight itself is an exclusive privilege.
- You will likely see a number of colourful phallus drawings on the walls of certain houses in Bhutan. These aren't graffiti, but rather a tradition that symbolises good luck and fertility. Phalluses are believed to ward off evil spirits and are often used in place of a scarecrow.

DAY-BY-DAY SCHEDULE

This itinerary is customisable. Please speak to us about your needs and requirements and we will do our utmost to accommodate you.

DAY 1 ARRIVAL, CHECK-IN AND LOCAL SIGHTSEEING

Upon arrival you will be greeted by staff from COMO Uma Paro before embarking on the 10-minute transfer to the property.

After checking in and spending some time settling into your new surroundings, we will take you on the first foray into the Himalayan kingdom, with sightseeing in Paro town and a temple visit.

The afternoon trip allows you to acclimatise to the rarefied air at this altitude as well as the chance to get to know your guide.

Overnight: COMO Uma Paro

DAY 2
WALK TO ZURIG DZONG, RINPUNG DZONG, TA DZONG, PARO TOWN, KYICHU LHAKHANG AND DRUKGYEL DZONG

Morning

Wind through pine forests high above COMO Uma Paro to the pretty grounds of the fortress-like monastery of Zurig Dzong. Traverse across to Ta Dzong, home to Bhutan's National Museum, with magnificent views over Paro, then on down to Rinpung Dzong (Fortress on a Heap of Jewels).

The trail then leads across the Paro Chhu river via the traditional covered bridge Nyamai Zam, past the main archery ground, Ugyen Pelri Palace, and into Paro town.

Afternoon

Driving a few kilometres north of Paro, we pay our respects at Kyichu Lhakhang, one of the oldest temples in Bhutan with its magical orange tree that bears fruit all year round.

Time permitting, we drive further up the valley to Drukgyel Dzong, built in 1648 by Zhabdrung Ngawang Namgyal to control the northern route to Tibet.

If you choose to, your guide will also arrange to bring you to a nearby monastery for a butter lamp ceremony – as a spiritual blessing and welcome to the kingdom – before you return to our resort. During this symbolic Buddhist ceremony, you will witness monks lighting lamps filled with ghee, in place of the originally used yak butter. The ceremony is meant to dispel ignorance, celebrate the fluidity of life and acknowledge the interdependency of nature

Duration: 5 to 7 hours (subject to time spent in National Museum and Paro)

Difficulty: Easy to moderate

Overnight: COMO Uma Paro

DAY 3
PARO VALLEY – TAKTSANG WALK

Morning

The historical Paro Valley is the focus of today's activities, culminating in a visit to the Taktsang 'Tiger's Nest' Monastery, one of Bhutan's most important sights. According to legend, this cliffside is where Guru Rinpoche (Padmasambhava) landed on the back of a flying tigress, bringing Buddhism to Bhutan from Tibet.

The trip starts early in order to avoid the hot sun during the two-hour climb – a steep hike passing a waterfall and ending among beautiful murals at the monastery's main entrance. If time allows, there is the possibility of heading further up to visit remote temples.

Afternoon

After lunch – either a prepared picnic or from the charming Taktsang cafeteria – you return to COMO Uma Paro, where you can recharge, enjoying the steam rooms, gym and swimming pool or indulging in one of our COMO Shambhala treatments.

Duration: 6 to 8 hours

Difficulty: Moderate to hard

Top: Punakha Dzong
Bottom: Nyamai Zam Footbridge

DAY 4
TREK DAY 1: WALK FROM DAMCHENA (2,880M) TO JANGCHU LAKHA (3,780M)

Morning

Our trek begins near Dhangrim Chorten, heading up through apple orchards, smallholdings and ancient pine forests to a whaleback ridge. Today's altitude gain is significant so the pace is slow and steady. We visit Jele Dzong, perched on the ridge, where monks welcome visitors. The dzong was the former residence of Ngawang Chhogyel, cousin of the saint Lama Drukpa Kuenley, known locally as the Divine Madman.

We cross the Jele La pass (3,490m) and descend below the ridgeline to reach a pasture at Jangchu Lakha, with outstanding views of the Himalayan range, where you will camp at 3,780m. The views of Paro town and Mt. Jhomolhari (7,314m) are breathtaking on a clear day.

Duration of drive: 45 minutes to 1 hour
Duration of trek: 7 to 8 hours (16km), guided with picnic
Difficulty: Hard (altitude gain: 900m / altitude loss: 0m)
Overnight: Camping

DAY 5
TREK DAY 2: JANGCHU LAKHA (3,780M) TO JIMILANG TSHO (3,880M)

Morning

After breakfast, the trek continues through dwarf rhododendron trees to a view of Thimphu and Paro Valley. From here, you'll go uphill towards Jangchu Lakhala (4,190m) before a steep descent to camp at Jimilang Tsho Lake (3,880m).

Afternoon

The lake is home to a large number of trout, believed to have been introduced by the British in the 20th century. Near the camp there are good mountain views, as well as a glacier stream joining the main lake.

Duration of trek: 6 to 7 hours (11km), guided with picnic
Difficulty: Hard (altitude gain: 410m / altitude loss: 310m)
Overnight: Camping

DAY 6
TREK DAY 3: JIMILANG TSHO (3,880M) TO LABANA (4,120M)

Morning

As today's trail twists, you'll enjoy views across the deep valley, spotting the route from day one across to Jele Dzong, now a tiny white dot in the distance. Crossing a spur, the expansive lake of Simkotra Tsho (4,110m) can be seen below.

Afternoon

The trek continues until you reach a yak pasture where you'll camp overnight, with magnificent views of the eastern Himalayan ranges.

Duration of trek: 6 to 7 hours (15km), guided with picnic
Difficulty: Hard (altitude gain: 410m / altitude loss: 0m)
Overnight: Camping

DAY 7
TREK DAY 4: LABANA (4,120M) TO THIMPHU (2,400M), THEN DRIVE TO PUNAKHA VIA DOCHU LA

Morning

The day begins with an ascent to Labana La pass (4,210m), which is adorned with prayer flags and rock pillars given as offerings to the God of Mountains. This is the highest pass in the trek. From here, you can see Thimphu far below.

The trail descends to the pilgrimage site at Phajoding (3,870m), then into pine and juniper forest until the road at Motithang on the outskirts of Thimphu.

Afternoon

The snake-like drive to Punakha winds up to the 3,000m-high mountain pass of Dochu La, offering views of 108 chortens, forests of cluttering prayer flags and on a clear day, sweeping views of the Himalayan ranges.

Duration of trek: 4 to 5 hours (12km)
Difficulty: Moderate to hard (altitude gain: 90m / altitude loss: 1,810m)
Duration of drive: 2.5 to 3.5 hours (Thimphu to Punakha)
Overnight: COMO Uma Punakha

Ponies carrying camp materials.

DAY 8
CHIMMI LHAKHANG, PUNAKHA DZONG
AND KHAMSUM YULLEY NAMGYAL
CHORTEN

Morning

The morning starts with a short walk across farmhouses and rice paddies to reach Chimmi Lhakhang, a 15th-century fertility temple dedicated to Drukpa Kuenley, a Tibetan Buddhist saint, perhaps better known as the 'Divine Madman'. This site has long been a pilgrimage for couples hoping to start a family, adorned with colourful fertility symbols and bold statues.

Heading further down the valley, the 300-year-old Punakha Dzong comes into view. Built in the 17th century by Zhabdrung Ngawang Namgyal (who founded the Kingdom of Bhutan), the fortress once housed the country's government. It is now the winter home of Je Khenpo, the head abbot of Bhutan, along with a retinue of 1,000 red-robed monks.

Afternoon

After lunch, the tour takes you on a walk through homesteads and farmland to Khamsum Yulley Namgyal Chorten, a hilltop shrine built by the royal family. This is a full day of exploration through the lush Punakha Valley which, at 1,200m, is low enough for bananas and oranges to grow beside the footpaths.

Duration: 6 to 7 hours
Difficulty: Easy to moderate
Overnight: COMO Uma Punakha

Top and bottom: Common sights in Bhutan;
prayer wheels and Buddhist monks

DAY 9 CHORTEN NINGPO AND KHASA VILLAGE

Morning

After-breakfast drive to Chorten Ningpo, which dates back to the 17th century. The chorten is home to a magnificent statue of Maitreya (the future Buddha) and images of the great lamas of the Drukpa lineage. Legend has it this magical spot was once a dense forest inhabited by evil spirits. The great oak tree outside the monastery is said to have grown out of the blazing log that the 'Divine Madman' threw (the tree's bark is still black from where it was burnt).

In 2005 the monastery began to house orphans from the nearby village, and founded a small Buddhist educational institution where the children can study traditional Buddhist scriptures and texts as well as Western subjects.

The hike back to COMO Uma Punakha is around 45 minutes, going past the temple of Thodrup Lhakhang.

Duration: 3 to 4 hours
Difficulty: Easy to moderate

Afternoon

Option 1: Sangchhen Dorji Lhuendrup Nunnery and Talo Nobgang Village Walk

You can visit Sangchhen Dorji Lhuendrup Nunnery, home to Bhutan's largest statue of Avalokiteshvara – a bodhisattva embodying infinite compassion – created entirely by local Bhutanese artisans. The temple complex also houses a permanent 'higher learning and meditation centre' for nuns, for both religious training and life skills. Nobgang monastery, dating back to the 17th century, was built as the residence for Zhabdrung Ngawang Namgyal, a Tibetan Buddhist lama.

As you start your hike down, you'll see the spectacular valleys, mountains and Punakha Dzong. The hike will go through chir pine trees, passing the school, farms and farmhouses. You will come across an amazing tree planted upside down, which locals believe was the walking stick of the 'Divine Madman', before you reach the finishing point.

Duration: 4 to 5 hours
Difficulty: Easy to moderate

Option 2: White Water Rafting at Mo Chhu or Po Chhu River

Most rivers in Bhutan are very steep and remote, making them too dangerous for rafting. However, the Mo Chhu and Po Chhu rivers in the Punakha Valley are easy to access, with fast but safe waters. This makes them the two most popular rafting courses in Bhutan, with around 9-10 rapid sections each. As you raft, it's also a great opportunity to watch the countryside glide by from a new perspective.

Duration: 2 to 4 hours on the water, depending on river state (up to 45 minutes shorter during monsoon season, July to August)

Difficulty: Easy. Additional Cost: US$350 plus taxes per boat (up to five people)

Please note: Rafting is subject to availability. While our outfitter takes all possible precautions to ensure a safe journey, all white water trips entail an element of risk. It is recommended that all participants are able to swim and are in good health. All safety equipment – including life jackets, splash jackets and trousers, helmets, dry bags for valuables – is supplied.

DAY 10 PUNAKHA VALLEY TO PARO, CHUZOM AND TAMCHOG LHAKHANG

Morning

Retrace your steps back over the Dochu La pass for a second chance to view the Himalayan mountain range. Returning to the Chuzom (the confluence of the rivers Wang Chhu and Paro Chhu), you can glimpse the three nearby shrines, built to ward off evil spirits – each with a different style of architecture: Nepali, Tibetan and Bhutanese.

Time-permitting, there will be a visit to Tamchog Lhakhang, a temple built by Thangtong Gyalpo, a pioneering engineer who introduced the construction of suspension bridges into Bhutan and Tibet (several of which are still in use today).

The final part of the drive to COMO Uma Paro is through apple orchards and rice paddies back to our mountain home, where you can spend the rest of the day in this calming setting. One popular option is to try your hand at archery, Bhutan's national sport.

Duration of drive: 3 to 4 hours (126km)

Difficulty: Easy

Overnight: COMO Uma Paro
